

WILLIS A. SNYDER

Willis A. Snyder of Hudson, New York, was vice president of the Economic Education League until his death on April 6th. Gilbert M. Tucker of Albany, president of the League, writes that he was an esteemed and very valuable member of the board from the beginning, and that he was always willing and capable, and never failed to meet every opportunity to serve and help in the work which meant so much to him.

Another good friend of Mr. Snyder's—Howard L. Freeman of Hudson—wrote sadly of his passing, and sent the following letter clipped from the Hudson Register-Star. It was signed by Paul J. Delaney—not a Georgist—but an understanding tribute:

"The passing of Willis Snyder leaves a void in the civic conscience of this community. He was a constitutionalist, a libertarian and a Georgist and as such, his was often the 'voice crying in the wilderness,' his warnings falling on deaf ears.

"To me, his motto seemed to be, 'I am only one, but still I am one. I cannot do everything, but I can do something. And I will not refuse to do the something I can do.'

"This Republic would not be in the condition it is today if there had been more leaders and common citizens of the same stripe as him who believed as he did that the best way to save the world is to save America."
