

Visibility: Clear—For Georgists

By KLAUS L. HANSEN

Although George's works date back seventy years or more, recent world events have proved his deductions far superior to those of modern economists who superciliously ignore his proposal for social reform without, however, pointing out any flaws in his reasoning. Indeed, evidence is constantly piling up that general acceptance of the "opinions" promulgated by these pseudo-economists and neglect of George's recommendation are getting the entire world deeper into the mire, from which it will be extremely difficult to extricate it . . .

When Eisenhower's term of office is up we will have taken additional strides on the dreary road to totalitarianism, in spite of token measures, launched spasmodically, for the avowed purpose of preserving what is left of free enterprise. Winston Churchill and the Conservative party are doing precisely that in Great Britain, and it clearly demonstrates the futility of efforts to maintain free enterprise without taking the one step that constitutes the absolute prerequisite to it.

[Mr. Hansen, who will be one of the speakers at the forthcoming Boston conference, feels that Georgists should make more effective use of current events in informing the public about Henry George's proposals. He has written a number of letters to the Milwaukee Journal and the above two paragraphs are a portion of a letter recently written to Secretary of Defense, Charles E. Wilson.]
