

Expansion Program Presented to Faculty

A buffet supper for the faculty of the Henry George School of Social Science was held on August 7th at the new international headquarters of the school, 50 East 69th Street, New York City. William S. O'Connor, a member of the Board of Trustees, presided over the meeting which followed the supper, and Anna George de Mills, President of the Board, welcomed the members of the faculty.

A plan for the school's future expansion was presented by Saul Cohn, Chairman of a newly created Business Advisory Committee. The plan involves the establishment of three departments — administrative, educational, and promotional. It seeks to create definite posts, functions, and responsibilities, all of which can be coordinated in one general management, under the Director of the school, Miss Margaret E. Bateman. The aim is to sub-divide the specialized departments necessary to carry on the work of administration, education and promotion, so that the maximum results are achieved in the extension of the school's activities.

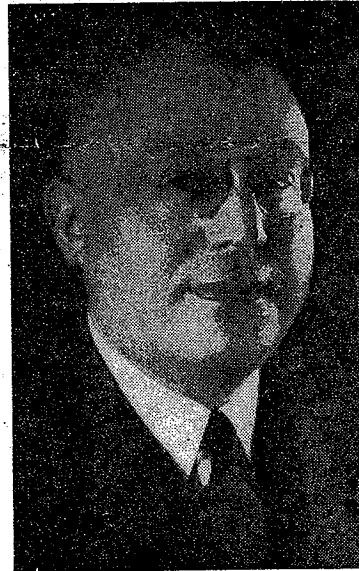

The Business Advisory Committee will consult with the faculty, the director, and the trustees, have periodic conferences, and will advise and report on activities and progress. The members of the Committee are Saul Cohn, President of City Stores Company, Gilbert M. Tucker, author, and Roy A. Foulke, manager of Special Report Department of Dun and Bradstreet, Inc.

The new program was received with great enthusiasm and promise of full cooperation, after an open discussion in which every faculty member present participated.
