

NEW BRITISH HOME

For many years the magic address for American Georgists visiting London has been 4 Great Smith Street, publication office of the international journal, Land & Liberty, and headquarters of the British Henry George School. Now that address has been changed, and 117 Vauxhall Bridge Road, Victoria, S.W.1, is the place to head for if you're looking for a kindred soul who understands the land question. And so it will be easily recognizable by readers from the USA—here is a picture of the new home.

The latest bulletin from this address verifies the information that the International Union for Land Value Taxation and Free Trade will hold its 1959 conference in Hanover, West Germany, the last week in July. Eric Zincke, who lives in Hanover, is now making the translation into German of the condensed edition of Progress and Poverty mentioned in the Robert Schalkenbach report (page 10).

P. R. Stubbings, Land & Liberty editor; V. H. Blundell and V. G. Saldji of London were recently elected as joint secretaries of the International Union.
