

"Whose World"

"Whose World," by Margaret E. Bateman, Director of the Henry George School, has brought favorable comment from almost every state, and from Canada as well. Copies have been requested by sixteen university and public libraries, where the material contained in the book is being used for reference.

In Key West, Florida, Stephen Singleton reviewed "Whose World" together with "America Unlimited," by Eric Johnston, President of the United States Chamber of Commerce. In his address to the Rotary Club, Mr. Singleton said: "Another writer has written a short and comprehensive book called 'Whose World,' which, in contrast to 'America Unlimited', begins with an interrogation point and ends with a declaration. These two books should lie upon the same table and receive the same careful consideration."

A reader in Illinois says: "'Whose World' is a wonderfully worthwhile book, and should be widely read that it may correct the evils of which it speaks."

"Whose World" is available through the Henry George School, 50 East 69 Street, New York City, in lots of five or more at a special price of fifty cents each.
