

Seventy-Five High School Seniors Graduate Experiment Proves Momentous Success

NEW YORK—The first six-week summer term in fundamental economics for high school seniors ended with a gathering of seventy-five graduates in the Student's Room, at noon, August 17th. Said an old-timer who was present: "This is the most momentous gathering in the Georgist movement in fifty years."

Sixteen of the students, who ranged in age from 16 to 19 years, spoke briefly of their impressions of the course, the textbook, the school. Their understanding of the economics and the philosophy, none of whom had any previous knowledge of George, indicated careful reading of "Progress and Poverty." The instructors—Messrs. Stockman, Arpin, De Angelis, Berger, Ellis and Mrs. Helen Bernstein—report that the youngsters responded to the discussions with intelligence and enthusiasm.
